WRECKS TWO CARS AND HIMSELF WITH NEW MOTORCYCLE

Cyclist Trying Out Machine Goes to Hospital After Ac- cident

Earl Stutzman, 615 W. Summer-st., suffered a dislocated right shoulder and a badly cut right ankle just before noon Thursday when the motorcycle he was riding collided with two automobiles on E. Washington-st. between N. Oneida and N. Morrison-sts. Stutzman was "trying out" the motorcycle, which is owned by Harry Macklin, with intention of purchasing it.

He struck the automobile sedan of Walter Voeks, 716 E. Pacific-st., which was parked outside of the yellow parking lines on E. Washington-st., opposite the postoffice, according to a report by the police. Losing control of the motorcycle, Stutzman swerved across the street and collided with an automobile coupe owned by Thomas Brickley, 376 E. Water-st., Milwaukee, which was parked near the entrance of the Briggs hotel.

Stutzman was taken to the office of a physician and later to St. Elizabeth hospital.

The footboard was knocked off the motorcycle and the mudguard and fork were bent. Extent of damages to the Voeks car was a broken left rear fender, while the left front fender of the Brickley automobile was bent, the front axle sprung, and the left front tire cut.

BAKERIES OUST HOME BAKING ART

Seven Loaves of Bread Out of Every Ten Are Made in Commercial Bakeshops

Los Angeles (AP)—Baking day and the community flour mill are passing hand in hand, from American life.

Seven loaves of every ten that come to the American table now are baked in commercial bakeries, and the flour mill which was an institution in every community as lately as a generation ago has been forced from business by the diminution in housewives' need for flour and the demand of commercial bakeries for a uniform grade of flour.

Los Angeles leads the country in the percentage of commercially baked bread on its tables, approximately 98 per cent coming from bakeries, engineers here said. New York, Chicago and other metropolitan areas show somewhat smaller ratios because a large foreign population continues to bake its bread by its own recipes, but the baker is invading even this field.

Even the farmer's wife, who bulked at the last stronghold of the home-baked loaf, now is ordering her bread and a dozen loaves at once from the community dealer, who gets big baskets of it daily from the nearest city bakery.

Children Here Read Risque Novels! No! Say Librarians

"Children would rather light a cigarette and delve into 'Flaming Youth' or 'Plastic Age' than partake of an apple over 'Huckleberry Finn,'" says a report from a "big city" library.

"Huckleberry Finn," "Tom Sawyer," "Little Women" and a dozen other good books that have been popular for many years are now passing out of favor and are being replaced by the modern flapperish heroine and cake-eater hero of present day fiction, the big town reports.

"No, decidedly NO," is the answer of the Appleton library. Either the children of Appleton have not yet reached the stage where they are so "modern" they desire cigarettes and risque novels or else the craze has passed the city without touching its youth, they say.

"We have 24 copies of 'Tom Sawyer,' 22 copies of 'Huckleberry Finn' and 31 copies of 'Little Women' and these books are out all the time and during the school months we have a waiting list for each of them," says Mrs. Nellie E. Harriman, head of the children's department at the library.

"It is a hard task to keep enough copies of the books on hand because they wear out very quickly owing to the fact that they are used so much. Every boy or girl drawing books from the library reads these three books at some time before passing into the adult department.

Books that have been popular with the young people here are 'Wee Ann,' Phelps; 'Little Lord Fauntleroy,' Burnett; 'The Lonesome Doll,' Brown; 'Peter Pan,' Barrie; 'Hoosier Schoolmaster and Hoosier Schoolboy,' Eggleston; 'Racketty Packetty House,' Burnett.

'Robinson Crusoe' and 'Swiss Family Robinson' also are in constant demand by the children. The talking

A schedule of assets and liabilities of H. Stammer, Seymour, who was forced into involuntary bankruptcy by creditors about three weeks ago, was received Thursday by C. E. Behnke, referee in bankruptcy. Liabilities were listed at $4,989.41 and assets at $2,707.92. Of the assets $780 was claimed as exempt. The hearing of creditors has been set for July 27 at Mr. Behnke's office.

animal and flower books by Payne and Burgess are also popular with the youngsters. A group of books known as the "Fun Books" also meet the children's approval. These books tell the stories of twins of various countries and they are educational as well as pleasant reading for the children.

"After reading these books they acquire a taste for more of the author's works and many of our children read all of the books in the library by Mark Twain and Louisa May Alcott," Mrs. Harriman says.

Among the best books at the library which are still in favor with the youthful readers of Appleton are the fine school and athletic stories of Barbour, such as "The Crimson Sweater," and "Dorset's Twister," the Indian and scout tales of Cooper and Altschuler, and practically all of the books by Mark Twain and Louisa May Alcott.

The books of Mark Twain, especially his "Huck's Finn" and "Tom Sawyer," and Louisa May Alcott's "Little Women" and Sarah Woolsey's "What Katy Did," are standbys which have been popular for many years and probably will never lose their popularity because they are typical every day life stories of ordinary boys and girls and they hold an interest for the average youth. The books are interesting to young boys and girls because many of the incidents in the stories pertain to actual happenings in the life of the reader.

Avoid Poorly- Balanced Breakfasts

excellent "food balance"

If you feel tired, hungry, "fidgety," 10 hours before lunch, don't jump to the conclusion of poor health. You may have unenergetic mornings because your breakfasts lack certain important food elements.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus, Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

Caillaux And Mellon Get Same Slant On French Debt

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington.—The United States treasury is all smiles. Joseph Caillaux is France's finance minister again. Secretary Mellon and Minister Caillaux speak the same language.

One speaks English and the other speaks French, to be sure, but they get together on the financial language. Inasmuch as they have extremely important financial business to transact—the French war debt—it is of the utmost importance for them to understand each other fully.

M. Caillaux, it will be recalled, was in this country some months ago in connection with the war debt and he and Secretary Mellon got on together admirably. The agreement they reached failed to hold water, it is true, but that was due to outside influences. So far as those two were concerned, they could have come to terms.

MITCHELL TALKS TO ADULT BIBLE CLASS

Facing the Great Opportunity will be the subject of an address by Prof. W. F. Mitchell of Lawrence college to the adult summer Bible class of First Methodist church at the weekly meeting Sunday morning in the Social Union room of the church. Mrs. William Crow, president of the John McNaughton class for women, will have charge of the services.

The one's angle is that of a banker.

The other's is that of a theorist. United States secretaries of the treasury generally are theoretical financiers, too, but it happens that the present one is personally in the financial business — or, throughout most of his life, always has been.

The same is true of M. Caillaux. Caillaux is not a rich man as riches are reckoned in America. That is, he is no such plutocrat as a Rockefeller, a Ford, or a Mellon. Nevertheless, for France, and, indeed, for Europe, he is very rich.

The French debt is a great worry to the administration. American public opinion demands a settlement on a basis that French public sentiment refuses to endorse. American and French financiers must so juggle the figures that America must appear to be getting more than she really receives, while France will appear to be returning less than she really pays.

This is difficult, and it is a great comfort to Secretary Mellon to have, as his French fellow negotiator, the cleverest of Gallic financiers, who comprehends the problem as well as he does and can help him to solve it so that no ordinary eye, on either side of the Atlantic, can discern how its owner is being technically thimble-ripped.

PLAYING A DEMAGOGUE'S GAME

Mr. Lenroot says Governor Blaine is afraid to debate the world court issue. Mr. Lenroot is right. Mr. Blaine has not the courage to go on the platform with the senator and discuss the question. There can be but one real reason why Blaine's nerve fails him in the face of Lenroot's challenge and that is because he knows he is misrepresenting the facts about the court and the senator's record in relation to it and the League of Nations. He knows that in a joint debate Mr. Lenroot would mercilessly expose his misrepresentation. Mr. Blaine prefers to continue making his misstatements about the court in the hope that he can deceive his audiences through blind acceptance of what he says. One of Mr. Blaine's favorite criticisms of the court is that it is controlled in the background by the British empire. This, of course, is untrue, but the impression is conveyed to catch the ear of German and Irish voters and to create a prejudice against Great Britain that will increase his political popularity. It is the rankest kind of demagoguery.

Another example of deception is the governor's statement in his New Lisbon address that adherence to the world court had sent "our country into a trap where in any case, upon any issue, and upon any question, carried to the League court by another nation, the United States would have only one judge of its own choosing as against ten judges chosen by our debtors and our commercial competitors." This is more demagoguery. The judges of the court are chosen by some fifty nations, not as members of the League and not as our debtors or commercial competitors. They are freely selected by representatives of all of the supporters of the court, each having equal voice, the small nations with the large. In the second place, no nation can take this country before the world court on any issue, in any case, at any time, except by the formal consent of the United States. When the governor intimates that it can be done and the United States made an unwilling party to a case before the court, he grossly and deliberately misrepresents the facts.

When also Mr. Blaine tells his audiences that the court may in some mysterious way obtain jurisdiction over and pass upon the validity of the Monroe doctrine, the validity of our immigration laws, etc., it is just plain fabrication. There is not one word in the protocol of the court upon which, by the wildest process of the imagination, such a thing could occur. Finally, the resolution of adherence by which we undertake to help support the court carries reservations fully protecting us in all of the matters Mr. Blaine refers to, as well as on other points criticized; in fact, to an altogether absurd and unnecessary extent. The only real obligation the United States has assumed in adhering to the world court is to pay its proportionate share of the expense of its maintenance. In all other respects, so far as obligations go, its position is the same as it was before it adhered. It may or may not try cases before the court, entirely as it desires. It is solely up to it whether it ever submits a case to the court. When Mr. Blaine makes contrary representations he is misstating the facts; he is engaging in sharp practices and is playing the part of a typical demagogue.

CUMMINS SEES BLACK

Senator Cummins' gloomy prediction of the political situation in 1928 is a bit premature. We fear his recent experiences have weakened his nerve and stampeded his imagination. The venerable Iowa senator sees disaster to the Republican party in the next presidential campaign, together with developments that will make it impossible for Mr. Coolidge to be a candidate for reelection. He is distressed at what he regards as the prospect of a Democratic victory growing out of Republican dissension.

While worse things could happen to the country than a restoration of the Democrats to power, none of Mr. Cummins' predictions is to be taken literally at this time. Not only is his perspective weakened by the Iowa primary, but the perspective of congress and of politicians generally is likely to be distorted by severe controversies over legislation and certain election events. Then, too, there are the coming congressional elections, which are not at all conducive to peace of mind and normal outlook.

For our part, we believe the so-called agricultural rebellion in the mid-West is overdrawn. Two full years remain in that section of the country, and if there is any wisdom in Republican leadership in the next congress it will see to it that something is done for agriculture that will at least satisfy its theories of relief through government cooperation. All of the farm discontent will disappear over night if that is done, or better still, under a year or two of sound prosperity. With the agricultural problem solved, there is not much left to give the administration worry. Other legislative duties unattended to are of minor importance and do not involve issues that are likely to divide the party or weaken it in public confidence.

Mr. Coolidge's candidacy for another term, while speculative to a certain extent, is wholly within his own keeping. Not only is he the logical successor of himself, but he is still the strongest man politically the party can offer. It is easy to magnify grievances against the president and to exaggerate his shortcomings. Mr. Coolidge has made a splendid president. He has given the country a level-headed, capable, constructive, business administration. Under his leadership we have made a constant and marked gain in prosperity and in the all-around welfare of the people. A few politicians have made a lot of noisy criticism of him and his policies, but we doubt whether they have penetrated beyond the surface of, or if they have influenced, public opinion to an appreciable extent. At this writing Calvin Coolidge is the logical candidate for the Republican nomination in 1928, and unless the next congress makes a perfect fool of itself, we expect to see him re-nominated. He is very sensible to dismiss Senator Cummins' forebodings with a figurative wave of the hand.

CHILDREN'S PLAYGROUNDS.

With the increased traffic and the attendant increase of danger to life and limb, the matter of adequate playgrounds for children, especially in cities, is of acute importance, for they are even more important after school has closed than before.

The playground seems the best method of protecting the child from traffic. Children will congregate. Adequate places should be provided, supervised if possible, but, in any event, places where children may play their games and sports safe from the dangers of the heavy street traffic. We can do nothing better in Appleton for our children, aside from improving the public schools, than to increase the playground facilities.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

The evening meal is over and you've got some time to kill. Ya park beside the radio to get your nightly thrill. The rhythm of sweet melody, it seems, has got the knack of bringing people back to life, when nerves are out of whack.

There isn't any static and the air outside is clear. It's just the proper night to tune on stations far and near. There are lectures; there are ball scores; there are orchestras galore, and it's certain you can get the type of stuff you're craving for.

As ya read the evening's program and start turnin' dials 'round, you are satisfied completely every time a station's found. Then there comes a loud commotion; in the house a kidlet darts, and he's followed by his sister. Then the interference starts.

In a moment, there is bedlam. "Daddy" this, an "daddy" that. Then the good wife adds her voice because the kids have had a spat. Yes sicee, the night is bully, and the radio is clear—but, between the wife and kiddies, how the dickens can ya hear?

The kids are out of school. You carry a spare tire on your car. Why not a spare window pane for your house?

Good poets are born, not made. Good husbands are made, not born.

Few of us look the way we think we do. In this we are lucky.

The farmers are finding it increasingly hard to stand their ground.

WHAT A CANNER CAN DO

Orange ripened in the sun is the richest source of vitamin C, which is essential to prevent scurvy, and perhaps tomato juice or raw tomato, run through a canner or orange juice a good second in this respect.

Even canned tomato, when fresh raw tomato is not obtainable is rich in vitamin C and serves practically as well as orange juice as a means of providing this essential food factor in the diet of an infant. But one precaution must be taken, when tomato juice is relied on to furnish vitamin C, and that is to use raw tomato, not cooked tomato, which has ripened in the sun, and if only canned tomato is available, then it is necessary to use only factory canned tomato for this purpose. Ordinary home canning destroys most of the vitamin C in any fresh fruit or vegetable.

In the canning process employed in the factory, the tomato or other fruit or vegetable, as fresh as it can be had from field or orchard, is cooked in a hermetically sealed tin or can so that air or oxygen is excluded and the cooking is practically done in a vacuum. This prevents oxidation and is oxidation which destroys the vitamin. In ordinary home canning the fruit or vegetable is cooked with more or less exposure to the air and this permits oxidation, so that home canned fruit or vegetables, although most desirable and wholesome in every other way, cannot be relied on as a source of this essential scurvy preventing vitamin in the diet.

The leafy rollshes or salad vegetables are valuable sources of the vitamin C. Raw spinach is as rich if not richer than orange juice or tomato juice in vitamin C, and after canning (vacuum or factory process) it is still equal in this respect to raw tomato and second only to raw orange juice.

Raw cabbage or cabbage cooked only a few minutes and immediately after harvesting, is valuable as a source of vitamin C. Factory canned cabbage is well supplied with this scurvy preventive.

Apples are rich in vitamin C and apple juice may well serve in infant feeding when orange or tomato juice is not available. Apples canned in factory preserves their vitamin C as well or rather better than apples kept in cold storage or in the cellar.

The most recent evidence is that canned fruits and vegetables do not deteriorate in their content of vitamin C even after many months, perhaps years, provided they were canned when freshly harvested and by the vacuum or factory method.

There is a little scientific trick with the housewife may employ in her canning, to conserve the vitamin value of fruit or vegetables. It is thus described in the little book on "Food, Nutrition and Health" recently published by Prof. E. V. McCollum or John Hopkins:

The materials are prepared for canning as soon as they come from the garden, but are first immersed in slightly salted water for a few hours. The juices of fruits and vegetables contain considerable dissolved oxygen, and this is used up while they are in the water, which shuts off the air, and so oxidation of the vitamin during subsequent heating is prevented.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sardines

Is there any iodine in canned sardines. (W. P. S.)
Answer—So far as I can determine, there is little or none left in sardines after canning. The only canned sea food I can mention which retains considerable of its natural iodine content is salmon.

Either Side

Is it injurious to the heart to sleep on the left side? (W. P. S.)
Answer—No. Assume any posture you prefer for sleeping.

Bran Bread

Is bran bread as fattening as white bread? I have been eating it several months instead of white bread but I do not reduce any. (T. T. A.)
Answer—There is practically no difference. It is futile to try to get thin by eating something. To reduce you must stop eating something or eat less of it. Mention your height, age and weight and I will close a stamped addressed envelope with your request for advice about reducing.

Above is a picture showing "Bill" Johnson as he looked just after being accosted by an unknown woman at the circus Thursday night. The camera caught Bill from the side and doesn't do justice to his size but nevertheless it is a fairly accurate picture. The woman thought that Bill was a former husband and she threw her arms about his neck and hung there devotedly. Bill had a terrible time trying to explain to his girl friend what it all meant.

Cherry Soup Is Unusual Summer Dish

Soon the sour cherries will start coming down to us from Door County. What a time for the cherry lovers. To them nothing on earth can be compared with the refreshingly tart taste of the sour cherry. We admit it is incomparable.

But before the cherries are actually here in great quantities, we can be thinking about the different dishes we will prepare when they do come.

FRUIT SOUP—CHERRY

Unusual is this cherry soup recipe. One quart cherries, one quart water, one-fourth cup sugar, two tablespoons sage, three or four inches of stick cinnamon, one-half lemon sliced fine, two yolks of eggs.

Cook sage in one cup of boiling water until tender, add more, as water evaporates. Put the first six ingredients on to boil and let boil 15 minutes; add the two well beaten egg yolks. Serve cold.

CHERRY POT PIE

One quart stoned cherries, one cup sugar, three cups water, one and one-half cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-third teaspoon salt, about one-half cup of milk, one tablespoon shortening.

Cook the cherries and sugar, and water as for sauce. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt, and work in the shortening and mix to a light dough with the milk; roll or put out on a flour board a little smaller than the size of the pan in which the sauce was made. Lay the dough on top of the fruit, cover closely, and cook 25 to 35 minutes. Cut the crust into pie-shaped sections, turn the fruit into a deep serving dish, and lay the sections of crust over it. Hard sauce may be passed if desired.

BREAD PUDDING

The following recipe is one of the thousand ways to use up your old bread. The recipe is very delicious and at the same time very easy to digest. A good dish for the kiddies' dessert.

One cup stale bread crumbs, two cups hot milk, one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons butter, one egg; one cup stoned cherries.

Pour milk over crumbs and let stand until cool. Add sugar, butter and egg slightly beaten. Mix well and add cherries. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Serve warm or cold with or without sugar and cream.

CHERRY PIE

Of course there is the good old cherry pie, whose position of high esteem nothing can rival. The following recipe for cherry pie is an especially good one.

Wash and pit sour cherries; there should be two and one-half cups. Mix one-third cup of flour, one cup of sugar and one-half teaspoon of salt; add to the prepared cherries and juice, stir until well mixed. Line a deep glass pie plate with rich pastry, build up the rim well and flute with the fingers, turn in the mixture and place strips of pastry above to form a lattice. Bake 35 to 40 minutes in an oven at 425 degrees Fahrenheit.

WEAR SUMMERY CLOTHES THAT CAN BE WASHED

BY CYNTHIA GREY

As summer advances, soap and water and laundry bills will assume higher importance in feminine minds. For summer is undoubtedly the dainty woman's greatest ordeal.

It threatens the cool precision of her toilet—with attacks upon the crispness of her collars, the waves of her hair, the velvet of her skin. If she is to combat it, she will need every device of science and ingenuity, in addition to unceasing vigilance.

The best of these is the simple cake of pure white soap and the tub of warm, scented water, followed by a cold shower. A daily bath in summer is absolutely essential. Many fastidious women demand two or three.

Choice of clothing has much to do with summer daintiness. The mode that demanded dark serge suits and silk dresses for street and office wear even on the warmest days, is passing now, along with many other unattractive and staid modes in dress.

The best taste cannot exist at light clothing on the street, so long as it is plainly made and of suitable material. The most successful business dresses this year are of tub silk in many delightful stripes, repeating the colors of the band on the panama hat or the small felt cloche.

Dark silks that cannot be tubbed are not only unbecomingly and uncomfortable for the wearer, they are a prime against those who have to look at them. A perspiring, black-clad woman entering a street car can make the entire careful of passengers feel warmer and wearier.

But the woman who steps from her cold tub into freshly laundered lingerie and a simple, light tub silk dress, who dusts her powder on carefully and not too thickly, and who dispenses with excessive make-up which will smear as the day grows

PRESERVE TASTE AND COLOR IN CANNED BERRIES

Of all fruits, the strawberry is one of the most difficult to can in order to preserve its color and flavor. It requires a large amount of sugar to preserve its color, but this in turn destroys the flavor.

There is no more attractive food to look at than a dish of sunshine strawberry preserves where an equal amount of sugar and berries is used, but many people prefer the plain canned product where less sugar is used. The following method has proved very successful if directions are followed closely:

First, hull and thoroughly wash the berries. In order to preserve the color as much as possible can the berries in their own juice; this is accomplished by allowing the berries and sugar to stand for a short time, forming enough juice to start the canning. Add one-fourth as much sugar by measure as fruit. Mix carefully and after standing for a hotter, is a delight to the eyes of the passer-by.

Not only does she look dainty and cool—but she has a much better chance of feeling comfortable as well.

while, let boil for three minutes. In order that the berries may have a plump appearance, cover and let stand for several hours or overnight; then drain off the juice and pour the berries into hot sterilized jars. Heat the sirup to the boiling point and pour over the berries. Seal loosely and at once place jars in a pan of hot water in a slow oven and cook for one hour. Remove from oven and seal immediately. Be careful that the jars do not touch during the oven cooking. Many times during the cold pack process of canning berries or even the open kettle process the berries rise to the top of the jar leaving perhaps a half jar of sirup, but fruit canned in the oven, when done you have a jar of fruit and not sirup.

"THE TURMOIL" SUGGESTED FOR VACATION BOOK

Library Offers Special Summer Privileges to Patrons of Institution

"The Turmoil," by Tarkenton, one of the most recent books, which has for its hero a man who saves his family by saving the business, is one of a list of books suggested by the staff of the Appleton library as suitable for summer reading. These books may be drawn from the library on special summer privilege plans which permits patrons of the library to draw books on one card and keep them until Oct. 1.

Other books on the list are: "The Conqueror" by Hamilton.

Barrie, "The Little Minister" A story of the love of a boy preacher for Babbie, the fascinating girl.

Boyd, "Drums" one of the best historical novels of the Revolutionary period.

Churchill, "The Crisis" A story of keen dramatic interest having for its background the incidents of the Civil war.

Defand, "The Awakening of Helen Richie" Helen Richie is an attractive and fascinating woman who is somewhat of a mystery to her old Chester neighbor. Her devotion to her adopted son David, and the problems which rise concerning him form the chief interest of the book.

Ferber, "Dawn O'Hara" Charming characterizations with a setting in Milwaukee.

Fox, "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" A story of Kentucky and the Civil war.

Harrison, "Queed" A story of the evolution of Mr. Queed from a dried up and eccentric little person to a normal human being who develops his muscles and falls in love with a charming girl.

Hemon, "Maria Chapdelaine" The scene of this simple and moving tale is the back country of Quebec, about Lake St. John. The book is an example of purely modern literature in a purely classic style.

Jackson, "Ramona" A picturesque sympathetic and faithful picture of Spanish and Indian life in California.

Johnson, "To Have and To Hold" A historical romance dealing with life in the Virginia colonies in the early part of the 17th century.

Kipling, "The Light that Failed" A story of Dick Helder, a young artist, and Maudie, a pretty but shallow girl brought up by Helder as an orphan.

London, "The Call of the Wild" A vivid picture of a dog and a man in the Alaskan gold fields.

Morley, "The Haunted Bookshop" The charm of the book lies in the character and discourse of the whimsical book-loving Roger Muffin.

Rushart, "K" A novel depicting a brilliant young surgeon who because of a fatal error in his work drops his profession and takes an assumed name.

Sedgwick, "The little French girl" The contrasting social standards of

197 NEW CARS REGISTERED IN COUNTY IN JUNE

New Car Registry in State Is 11,134 Last Month, Secretary Reports

CLAIMS HE CAN MAKE GOLD FROM MERCURY

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Dayton, O.—The dreams of the ancient alchemist—he who sought gold out of baser metals—may be realized actually by C. F. Adams, 20th century chemical engineer of this city.

Ford Adams announces that he finally has achieved what the alchemist of old had been seeking in vain. He says he has transformed mercury into gold.

That's the first claim of this kind made by an American.

Doubt shrouds the claims of other scientists who, in the last few years, have announced their apparent success in converting mercury into gold by a complicated electrical process.

Adolphe Miethe in Germany, Nagoka in Japan, and Drs. Karssen and Smit in Holland, four of the world's leading chemists, are the claimants.

HIS HAPPY "ACCIDENT"

Adams puts America into the field. Before his assertions can be accepted science will have to make a thorough investigation of his methods and results.

Meantime, Adams is continuing his work, preparing to tell the world how he transforms a base metal into gold.

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JOHN and FAY MILBURN
buy a home when their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract. Among their acquaintances are:

NOEL and VERA BOYD, whose marriage is strictly "modern."

PAT and MARIAN FORBES, who have three children and whose domestic life is unhappy because of Pat's roving tendencies. Previous chapters told how:

John was fascinated on meeting NELL ORME, of whom Pat Forbes hints that she is unhappy with her husband.

Fay took JUDITH, the baby,
to visit her parents in Chicago, and during her absence John "ran around a good deal mostly in company with Pat Forbes. When Fay returned gossip had retailed some of his doings, and sharp quarrels between him and Fay followed, one of which drove him "out on a tear." Fay, learning he had been out again with other women, threatened to leave him
if it was repeated.

John became aware that people were talking about him, and NATHANIEL GRAHAM, his partner, charges his actions are damaging the firm's reputation.
Vera Boyd invites John to tea,
and there he finds Nell Orme.
He realizes the danger of this,
as he is aware of Vera's propensity for promoting "affairs," and he resolves not to go again, but goes, and does, and this time he meddles with Nell in his arms.
Fay learns of it and announces her intention of leaving. He tries to dissuade her, and a violent quarrel follows. As a result, Fay goes through with it, and John experiences the greatest pang of his life when he kisses Judith goodby.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situations in this story are "fictitious.")

CHAPTER XLVI

Through the gate, John still could see the train that was taking Fay and Judith from him moving swiftly, almost silently, away; moving swiftly, or, smaller. There came a dreadful moment when it rounded a curve and the last car disappeared from sight, and that moment was not to be forgotten by John as long as he lived.

This, then, was the end. Fay and Judith were no longer his. Perhaps there would be times when he would be permitted to see Judith, but they would be few and far between and would serve only to what his desire And Fay... He wondered if she possibly could be realizing the dreadful thing she had done to him.
A long time he stood and gazed at the converging tracks, and the agony of his spirit must have been expressed in his eyes or somewhere in his face, for the guard at his elbow said solicitously, "Taking it kinda hard, aren't you, mister?"

But he ignored the man entirely, and turned away. Outside, figures were moving briskly in the bright sunlight, and a newshy, approaching him with a paper in his outstretched hand, caught a glimpse of his face and suddenly withdrew the sheet and stopped to stare. That terrible moment when the train disappeared from view was to haunt John most of his life. Years after, even, he could wake from a dream
in a cold sweat with a cry on his lips and a freezing sensation around his heart, and the picture in his mind of that train carrying his wife and baby out of his life.

He moved mechanically through the streets, and his lips were repeating, mechanically, the same phrase over and over again: "So this is the end." He strode into his office grimaced and tight-lipped, and Miss Kniskely at sight of him checked her usual morning salutation and turned quickly to her work. Nat Graham uttered to colorless "good morning" to which John made no answer, and Briggs, the blithe little artist, came in presently to exhibit the latest floral outrage in his buttonhole and found his usually amiable boss surly and non-committal. Briggs hastened back into his little cubbyhole, a pained expression on his face.

There was mail to be read, but the typed words danced meaning-lessly before John's eyes. There was copy to be written and another layout series planned, but it seemed ridiculous even to think of attempting it. He sat at his desk, drumming ceaselessly with his pencil, and once, Nat Graham shot him an annoyed glance, which John caught and turned with a hostile stare.

Things viewed in the leisure of retrospect take on an entirely different aspect, and he found himself beginning to understand a little why Fay should have grown to dislike him. After all, what was there about him that he could be proud of? He was only a plunger—gifted a little it was true, in turning well-rounded phrases and with perhaps little better than average intelligence. But why should Fay be crazy about him? Why, in the first place, had Fay even married him? There had been other suitors, men of more charm, men with money, men combining money with charm with the added distinction of handsomeness.

What was there about him that Fay had liked? He found himself unable to answer. Was love, then, really blind as the poets had said?
No, love was not blind, though perhaps it was unexplainable. Fay, loving him, he reasoned, still had a right to expect clean and fine things from him, and to get disgusted with him if he failed her. He told himself that it was comparable to one man disliking another who cheated at cards. He might have been more circumspect, more respectful of Fay's feelings—still it hurt him to think that she should believe him guilty of things he had never done.
He had flirted with Eleanor Masson but that was all. Confound it, he didn't even like her. And as for Nell Orme, well that, of course, went a little deeper, but how much of it, after all, was pity for Nell and her unhappy plight, and how much was just his careless little flair for romance?

Confound it, there was nothing ugly about the things he had done.
Squeezing a hand in the dark once in a while, flirting mildly with girls who wanted to be flirted with, taking a few drinks now and then with congenial companions. That was all —but what must Fay think of him if she could bring herself to break with him? Evidently, she thought pretty badly of him—and on the strength of nothing more than circumstantial evidence. "It's not what you do," he whispered, "it's what they say you do. Some people can get away with murder. Others get thrown in jail for looking cross-eyed."

How long he wondered, would he be able to go along like this before people started asking questions?
There was the nosey Mrs. Blodgett across the street. Surely she would find out right away that Fay had left, if she had not already seen them that very morning from her crow's nest at the front window. And what was he going to say? Tell them what Fay had left him and was intending to divorce him? Or lie about it—say that she had gone home on another visit?

He felt that he needed someone to confide in, to tell his troubles to.
But who was there, aside from Dick Menefee? And what was he to do about the house? Surely he couldn't go on living in it—and he couldn't bear the thought of renting it, nor could he bring himself seriously to think of selling it. Besides, even if he wanted to sell, he couldn't without Fay's consent; the house was in both their names.

He was aware of people passing in and out of the office. The little clock on his desk pointed to two o'clock. He had wasted the whole morning and part of the afternoon, and he hadn't even had lunch. He shook his head impatiently, walked over to the clothes tree and without a word took down his coat and hat and slammed out of the door, Miss Kniskely sending a surprised look after him.

Dick Menefee's office was only three blocks away, and perhaps he would find him in. If he didn't find someone quickly to talk to he would burst with grief.

Luckily, Menefee was in, and not terribly busy. The friendly young physician looked up at John's entrance and at once sprang to his feet with outstretched hand.

"Welcome, stranger! Where have you been keeping yourself?" And then, at the other's haggard look,
"What's the matter, John—sick?"
John shook his head and sank down wearily in the deep-cushioned chair. "This is not what you'd call a professional visit, Dick," he smiled sadly. "I've got something on my mind, and I'm pretty sick about it, although I don't think you can very well write a prescription for it."

Concern was in Menefee's voice.
"Well! What is it, old man?"
John said, lifting his hands and letting them fall hopelessly, "Fay's left me, Dick."

Dick's slow frown did not begin to express the surprise that he felt.
"You mean—"

"I mean she's through with me—so she says. She left this morning for Chicago, and took Judith with her. She's going to get a divorce."

"John, I don't believe it," Men-fee began to pace up and down.
"I can hardly believe it myself," said John, staring dully at the floor.
"But it's true."

"But John!" Dick paused. "What happened?" he went on. "Can you tell me?"

"Don't let it get any farther, Dick," John began, but the other cut him off.

"Of course not," he said so quickly that John apologized.
"I know you won't, Dick. I'm just so upset about it that I can't seem to think." Briefly, then, he told Dick the story, leaving out many of the details but outlining the chief incidents in Fay's and his quarrel.

Menefee listened attentively, starting the while out of the window as he puffed reflectively on his deep-bowed pipe. Dick was beginning to show signs of aging. His hair had grown a little gray at the temples, and the mustache he had lately cultivated was old-looking on him. A solid citizen, Dr. Dick Menefee, substantial, reliable, in the world to do a man's work, and doing it. Even in his present state of agitation, John could not help but observe this as he glanced up from time to time at his listener. He found himself envying Menefee. Here was a man who amounted to something—a physician, healing the sick, saving lives, a splendid, whole-souled man.

Imagine Menefee being guilty of his own foolishness!

Dick heard him out and for several minutes said nothing, but stood there, watching the flow of traffic in the busy street below him.
Finally he turned away and came over to John and placed a comforting hand on his shoulder. "And you think," he said, "that it's final—that she's going through with it?"

"You know, Fay, Dick," John answered him with a hopeless gesture.
"Yes." The other turned away and once more walked over to his place beside the window. He lifted his head to ask, "Is there anything
I can do to patch it up, John?"

John told him quickly that he wouldn't stand for anybody trying to act as peacemaker. "I won't have anybody pleading my case, Dick and you know it. I wouldn't tell another soul in the world that it had upset me the way it has. This is Fay's business—hers and mine. After all," he added a little bitterly, "people do get divorces, you know."

Dick frowned. "Yes — there's Clara," he said, referring to his sister-in-law. "But Clara's case was different. A plain mistake. Lane was a four-flusher and a liar and a few other things."

"And I," John put in, "am little better."

"Oh, come now," Menefee growled impatiently. "This thing will iron out."

"You know, Dick," Milburn said, biting his lip, "I feel, I feel—well,
you've read, no doubt, in books,
about the world coming tumbling down about a person's ears. That always struck me as a rather exaggerated figure of speech. But, Dick, that's just what's happened to me."

Dick shook his head gravely. "I know, John, I know. I'm sorry I can't help you, old man. I guess I'm a poor person to come to."

"I had to get it off my chest, Dick."

"You'd better let me and Margaret see if we can't—"

"Hold on now," John stood before him half angrily. "Did you or Margaret try to interfere with Clara's divorce?"

KAUKAUNA GETS
NEW STOP SIGNS
FOR ARTERIALS

Erect New Markers to Make Driving Safer in Electric
City

Kaukauna—New arterial "stop" signs have arrived and will be put up in a few days. The new signs have caused Chief of Police McCarly much concern because they are painted black and yellow and he was under the impression that the standard color for signs for the state of Wisconsin is black and white. He had all of the prep sent signs in the city painted that color and now these signs, which came direct from the Wisconsin highway commission, are of another color.

Arterial signs will be placed on the streets leading into Taylor and Laue-st on the north side. On the south side signs will be placed on roads leading into highway 55 as far as Tenth-st. Signs on Wisconsin-ave and Laue-st and Wisconsin-ave and Desnoyer-st. Signs in front of the Farmers and Merchants Bank and Gantner's News Stand on the south side also will be removed.

TWILIGHT LEAGUERS
POSTPONE BALL GAME

Kaukauna—The ball game scheduled for Thursday night between the Bankers and the Postals was postponed until Friday evening because of the circus at Appleton. This game promises to be a thriller for it will be an attempt of both teams to get out of the cellar. The loser will go into a tie-for first place with the fast slipping Volleyballers. Next week the same half of the season begins with the Homan team having a two game advantage over the Clerks. Electricians and Thimbley teams, tied for second place.

REVIEW BOARD READY TO MEET TAXPAYERS

Kaukauna—The board of review will meet Monday in the city clerk's office in the Municipal building for the purpose of hearing complaints on assessments. Tax payers with complaints are to take them before the board at that time.

Social Items

KAUKAUNA YOUNGSTERS
FORM ANOTHER TEAM

Kaukauna—The Black Sox and Cardinals junior baseball teams composed of small boys from the city, have a new rival in the team recently organized by Sammie Miller. ANCIENT CAR
STILL RUNNING

W. J. Sader Tunes Up 1910
Bus Which Has Traveled
81,000 Miles

Special to Post-Crescent
New London — Sixteen years of travel has not lessened the staying powers of the touring car which is owned by W. J. Sader, local jeweler. Mr. Sader has recently repaired the ancient car. Its brass mountings shine gloriously, its high wheels twinkle brightly and its huge side horns with old fashioned hub, still bloom as brazenly as in those days when its model was most popular.

Mr. Sader is immensely proud of the car, and has just finished thoroughly overhauling the mechanism. He takes pride in stating that the car still has the same bearings, carburetor adjustment, same valve action as it had when he purchased it in 1910. The valves have never been reground. In all those years the car has been up for repairs but once at a professional garage. It has traveled 81,000 miles.

Rumor has it that the manufacturing company at one time offered Mr. Sader a new car in return for his old model. It was further rumored that Mr. Sader had refused to part with the old relic of those days when men wore athen and women wore auto bonnets, goggles and highly colored head scarfs. Mr. Sader insists that if he were offered a new car he would not be responsible for what happened, for though he loves the old buss he could learn to love another as well.

STAGE AND SCREEN

THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER HAS UNUSUAL IDEA FOR BASIS

"The Unknown Soldier" is unlike any other picture ever made or present contemplated. It is a graphic, potent perpetuation in the life of the intensely human emotional struggle of a war bride and her mother for the love that they were deprived of through death on the battlefield. It will be shown at the Appleton Theatre starting Friday, and continuing through Saturday.

It reflects, not the bombastic achievement of the war, as much as the spiritual effect of the great conflict. It is a striking visualization of the spirit of every dead soldier of every American mother who lost a son in France.

It is a straight-forward, logical, human interest story of a typical American boy, who under the stress of action becomes a "Fighting Fool" and develops an inevitable spiritual sense under stress.

The stage show presented by Vincent Carr and his Gang assisted by Tina Tweedie, "The Darling of the Ages" and other musical talent, will further endear this organization to the hundreds who were transformed into ardent boosters by their enjoyable program given on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

HILARIOUS COMEDY "ROLLING HOME"

What young man has never dreamed of returning to the old home town, a limousine and a fortune at the command, to be welcomed by the cheering villagers?

It is doubtful if any enthusiastic youth ever set forth to wrest wealth and fame from the universe without the mental reservation that he would return and show the home folks they did not appreciate his exceptional talents.

This distinctly human trait provides the basis for the plot of "Rolling Home," William A. Seiter's latest Universal production starring Reginald Denny, which comes to the Elite Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

Denny plays the role of the ambitious wanderer who strays from "Lower Falls" to conquer the world and name the Rockefeller and Morgans with his business sagacity and financial wizardry.

Like most young men who had hopes but few plans, he discovers that the world is somewhat reluctant to turn over its riches to him without something in return, and the events which follow his departure from home, with his subsequent return, provides excellent comedy of the usual Denny-Seiter quality.

Supporting the star in "Rolling Home" is an unusually large cast, including Marion Nixon, E. J. Ratcliffe, Ben Hendricks, Jr., Margaret Seddon, George Nicholls, George Marion, and Rex Taylor.

Re-taylor adapted "Rolling Home" to the screen from the play by John Hunter Booth, and the continuity was written by William A. Seiter and John McDermott.

Anita Stewart has the leading feminine lead in Peter B. Kyne's Ranch Life Story.

"Rustling for Cupid," Fox Films latest release, is to be seen at the New Bijou today and Saturday. This is a screen version of Peter B. Kyne's famous story of New Mexico ranch life. In which George O'Brien and Anita Stewart have the leading roles.

O'Brien is the young actor who, at twenty-five, finds himself one of the most popular of the Fox Films stars. He had the leading roles in such productions as "The Johnstown Flood," "The Iron Horse," "Havoc" and "The Silver Treasure."

Before coming to the screen, O'Brien served during the world war with the submarine section and while in the navy he became the light heavyweight champion of the Pacific Fleet. This boxing experience, shows him "Rustling for Cupid."

One of the big scenes is a fight between Brad Blachford, the character portrayed by O'Brien, and Jack Mason, the role of Sid Jordan. There are no pulled punches in this battle and it is a fight all over the street of the little town of Sycamore Creek, New Mexico.

In fact, the entire picture is full of punches that bring heart clutches and then laughter.

OATS AND BARLEY CROPS LOOK FINE; CORN BACKWARD

11 Per Cent Smaller Crops Than Last Year Is Prospect for Country

Madison—The outlook for oats and barley is good in Wisconsin this year, but the condition on July 1 indicated only average hay yields and poor corn prospects. Paul O. Nyhus, federal-state agricultural statistician, reported Thursday.

"Feed supplies and prices will be affected," he stated, "by the prospect for the entire United States of 11 per cent smaller crops than last year of oats and barley, a low condition early June shortened the hay crop of corn, and a short hay crop."

"Dry and cold weather in May and in western and northern Wisconsin. Moisture conditions were more favorable in the southeastern part of the state so that in that region good yields are common. The crop varies from a condition of 69 per cent of normal in the northwest to 88 per cent in the southeast with a state condition equal to the five year average on July 1."

"In spite of considerable losses in acreage of alfalfa due to winter killing in and about Green, Richland, and Waukesha-cos, there is a net gain for the entire state of 12 per cent in acreage. There is a marked and substantial gain in counties where alfalfa growing has been only recently undertaken. The new acreage is 347,000 and the first cutting made a good tonnage. It is significant that alfalfa development has gone forward in this dairy state to a point where almost one million tons of hay may be made this year."

"Drouth has shortened the United States hay crop 11 per cent below last year and 14 per cent below the five year average."

"The backwardness of corn is an extremely weak spot in the Wisconsin crop situation. Cold weather generally and excessive rain in eastern Wisconsin have kept plants small and unthrifty. The July 1 condition of 67 per cent is the lowest in ten years. Many crop reporters in the northern half of the state express lack of confidence for ripe corn. In southwestern Wisconsin the crop is less backward and ripe corn is entirely possible. The lateness of planting was probably the chief factor in influencing a 4 per cent reduction in acreage in Wisconsin."

"Throughout the entire United States corn is generally uneven and backward because of the late, cool season and lack of moisture over wide areas. The July 1 condition of 67 per cent of normal is the lowest for July on record except the 72 per cent reported in 1924."

"Oats and barley have uniformly good prospects in Wisconsin. Growth is somewhat short in the southwestern part of the state, but a thrifty condition is general as indicated by the high condition of 91 per cent for oats and 90 per cent for barley. Oats are four points and barley is three points above the five year average condition. Barley as a feed crop has grown in favor in Wisconsin with an additional acreage this year of 13 per cent over last year. The at acreage is 1 per cent larger."

"The United States condition of oats is nine points below average and barley is likewise poor in the leading states of the Dakotas and Minnesota, due to drouth injury. The United States forecast of oats is 11 per cent and of barley 12 per cent below last year but both forecasts are slightly

CHECK RECKLESS DRIVERS IN EAST

Massachusetts Will Require All Motorists to Have $5,000 Insurance

Boston—Not since registration of cars and examination of automobile drivers has such a drastic measure to protect pedestrians and automobile owners from the careless driver been adopted as a Massachusetts law. This will require that the owner of every automobile operating within the state be covered with insurance of at least $5,000, a bond of that amount, or securities of cash of that value. The law will become effective Jan. 1.

In the meantime state officials and representatives of insurance companies are working hard on plans to speed up registration next year, for it is expected that the new insurance requirements will entail more than twice as much work as there is now with the issuing of license plates and drivers' licenses and examination of applicants.

Incidentally it will mean that Massachusetts will be the most expensive state in which to operate an automobile. It is expected that when Jan. 1 comes around thousands of owners will hesitate more than once before they put up the insurance policy.

DELAYS SEEN AHEAD Insurance companies will be flooded by people wanting policies and if there is any attempt to investigate the holders before considering them good risks there will be delays. Then there will be those who are turned down by surety officials.

From such decision there is provided an appeal to a state commission. That will mean delay, too.

Just how many of the policies will go to insurance companies is merely a guess. The amount will run into millions. But with all the extra cost of operation and the increased amount of claims to settle and defend, the insurance men state the law is not going to be a bazaar for them.

While it is generally admitted that eventually this new law will benefit both sides, it is pointed out that special traffic courts will have to be established to handle automobile cases, both civil and criminal. As it is now, it takes about three years for a case to go through the courts for final settlement.

MORE PAYMENTS A traffic court of this nature has already been recommended here.

Just what effect this new law will have on the sales of new cars is problematical. With practically all cars being sold on the time payment basis, it means that the purchaser is going to be heavily loaded with payments on the car, driver's license fee, registration fee and the premiums on his insurance.

Meanwhile, the other states of the union will be watching with interest the first attempt in the world to give uniform protection in a financial way to those who are injured, or their families if they are killed by the reckless drivers.

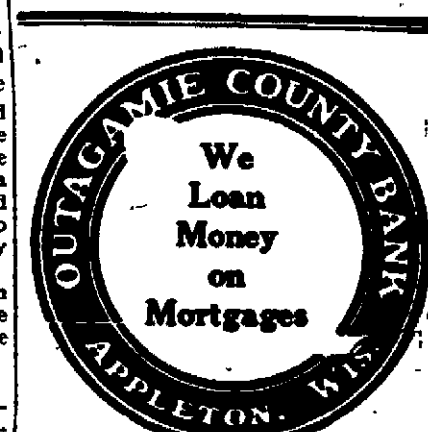

POUR LAST CONCRETE ON CHERRY-ST EXTENSION

Pouring of concrete on S. Cherry-st to highway 15 has been completed and crews are now busy grading the shoulders of the new pavement and work at the intersection with the state highway. The street will be opened as far as W. Seymour-st a week from Friday and will be opened the remaining distance about two weeks later. The work was done by Garvey-Weyenberg Construction Co.

The pavement on N. State-st from W. College-ave to W. Wisconsin-ave was completed Monday and will be opened to traffic in about two weeks.

"Spring wheat acreage in Wisconsin is 10 per cent more than last year with a condition of 87 per cent of four points below average. Winter wheat is being grown on a 38 per cent larger acreage than last year with a condition of 84 per cent. Rye is somewhat better than last year but the prospective yields are below average."

"Winter wheat in the United States made considerable improvement in June and the great southwestern area in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas are realizing average or better yields. In the spring wheat states of the Dakota and Minnesota, however, severe drouth lowered the condition of the crop fully 25 points below average. The total wheat harvest of the United States promises to be 15 per cent above last year's crop because of the greater winter wheat production."

"Pastures are only fair in western Wisconsin because of lack of rain, but in the southeastern part of the state they are very good. Among Wisconsin's minor crops flax has gained an average of 32 per cent over last year and soy beans in central Wisconsin have apparently given away to alfalfa thereby reducing last year's acreage of soy beans 15 per cent."

"The United States condition of oats is nine points below average and barley is likewise poor in the leading states of the Dakotas and Minnesota, due to drouth injury. The United States forecast of oats is 11 per cent and of barley 12 per cent below last year but both forecasts are slightly

THOUSANDS of car buyers steadfastly buy Wadham's "370" True Gasoline—at a higher gallon price than common, down-graded fuels—because they know that Wadham's is "cheaper-in-the-end."

True! But do they and thousands of non-buyers realize that True Gasoline by no means waits till "the end" to assert its economy?

It's right there—on tap—from the first mile. BEFORE THE TANK IS EMPTY, each fill has actually paid back its full extra cost in greater power, speed and yield of miles!

That makes pure "velvet" of its shorter warming period, quicker pickup and smoother running—and beyond that there still abide the motor protective qualities which alone stamp it as the fuel that's "cheaper-in-the-end!"

Wadham's 370 True Gasoline (at the Yellow Pumps)

—free from all kerosenish and heavy adulterants—protects your motor against excessive carbon deposits, against the effects of ragged power application, and against the dangers of oil dilution. Herein lies its major long-run value to you.

— But this has not cost you a premium price. Every extra penny paid out at the pump has already been directly and fully REPAID to you in greater mileage and pleasanter running qualities of its day-to-day performance.

Dean of Women at Michigan Says Universities Are Matrimonial Schools

Ann Arbor, Mich., (AP)—American colleges offer an excellent opportunity for training young women for the responsibilities of matrimony, believes Miss Jean Hamilton, Dean of Women at the University of Michigan.

The average girl goes to college knowing she probably will marry, and Miss Hamilton asks, in view of this, why they see kthis additional and higher education unless it will benefit them as wives?

"The reason," she said, "is that one of the great necessities of life is work. Even if a woman is 'so unfortunate' as to have only play in her life, she has to make work of that play. The nature of woman's work has changed so in the last three generations that to be prepared for the majority of the interesting forms of work possible to a woman today, she must be trained in a new way."

"Work for women has gone outside the home—man took it out. It is a modern, man-made joke when a wife was said to 'sing about her work' for a skeptic to ask, 'What work?' Women know that there is much work still left at home, but it is only a fraction of what once was there."

"The number of self-supporting women in the United States has increased 14 per cent in 10 years. Decidedly, the preparation of his daughter to earn capably must be in the mind of every intelligent and just parent. This is the chief reason the number of women seeking higher education has so increased."

eliminating this preparation to earn a living, Miss Hamilton added, does not eliminate the "old cultural appeal." Formerly college women were represented only by those with "a burning curiosity for intellectuality." This group still exists, she said, and the others have been added.

"There is this advantage," Miss Hamilton continued, "many girls who never were 'exposed' to cultural influences a generation ago and who never awakened to the joy of using their minds, are awakened today, although they may have come to the university for economic reasons."

FIRE IS RAGING IN WOODENWARE PLANT DRY KILN

Firemen Unable to Make Much Headway Against Stubborn Blaze

BULLETIN

Menasha—At 2 o'clock Friday afternoon John McClelland, head of the employment department, said there was very little change in the fire situation and that other buildings of the plant were not threatened. Dinner for the firemen was provided at the company's cafeteria. None of the firemen had suffered ill effects from the smoke up to that time and no injuries were reported among them.

Menasha—Fire broke out in a dry-kiln building of the Menasha Woodenware company shortly after 1 o'clock Friday morning and very little headway had been made upon it up to noon although the company's fire department, the city fire department and the company's sprinkler system was flooding the building with water.

The 30, or more kilns were filled with dry caddy stall staves and the smoke was so dense that it handicapped the firemen in getting into the building. Gas masks were quite generally used by the firemen. The sawmill in close proximity to the building was compelled to shut down because of smoke and a cloud of smoke hangs over the plant and a portion of the city.

The building is inclosed in metal sheeting which makes it all the harder for the firemen to fight the fire. The dry kiln building is surrounded by other buildings of the plant, but up to noon none of them were threatened. With the exception of the sawmill all other departments were in operation. There was no apparent alarm up to noon that the flames would communicate with other buildings. The fire is supposed to have started from a fan.

MORE UNDERSTANDINGS

Chuck looked at me a moment in perfect surprise and then he said: 'Jude, I don't think you understand I'm perfectly willing to marry you—'

I stopped him right there.

"I have just seen a man who was perfectly willing to marry a girl and I came to the conclusion that she was letting herself in for a terrible life, for she seemed perfectly willing to let him marry her. I'm going to cry out my own way first."

The word first was rather unfortunate, for it seemed to make Chuck angry again.

"There won't be any 'second' with me, Julia Dean. If you marry me, it'll have to be before this eye gets back to its natural color or not at all."

That comeback should have made me laugh harder than ever. I don't know why I had such a change of feeling, but, as before I had wanted to laugh, now I wanted to cry.

This was my first proposal of marriage and it was so different from what I thought it would be. I had had dreams of what it would be like but now when it really came, there was not even a thrill or a bit of romance in it.

"Chuck, you don't want to marry me," I told him, "and up to the time Dad went to see you, you hadn't even thought of it. You like me. I'm probably the best pal in the town for you. But, some way, Charlie, there's a difference between loving and wanting a girl. Loving a girl means the only girl and wanting a girl means any girl. You'll find it all out some day when the real girl comes into your life."

"You, as well as I, have seen so many marriages go on the rocks among the older set because the man wanted the girl and the girl wanted to be wanted before her marriage and after marriage, the man wanted to get rid of the girl and the girl wanted to be rid of him.

There must be some place along the line, Charlie, where one can be happy though married, but some way I've never happened to strike it.

"Ever since I left high school I've determined I would train myself for some kind of service by which I could earn my own living and then I'd never marry a man just because I thought he could take care of me. Chuck got rather interested in this. "My Lord, Julia, where did you get those crazy ideas? Leave it to me to pick up a serious one when I know that the girl I really do want is a Jazz-Queen."

"Then Chuck, you see you really don't want me"

NUMBER OF AMERICANS IN BERLIN DECREASE

Berlin —(AP)— Stabilization of the mark, with the resultant increase in the cost of living has driven pleasure seekers out of the city.

WHERE HOOCH COMES FROM IS STILL A SECRET—AND ALSO A SECRET STILL

New York—(AP)—William T. Tilden II also plays a good game of bridge. One afternoon he staged an exhibition tennis match at Pelham Country club, playing single-handed against four local racquet wielders. Later he took a hand in a bridge game. An hour afterward one of the Pelham bridge experts confided to a friend in the locker room. "That fellow Tilden can certainly play bridge. I know when I've met my master." In the evening Bill brought joy to the hearts of Pelham debutantes participating in the club dance.

CAMPAIGNS AGAINST GOVERNOR MOTHER

Cheyenne, Wyo., (AP)—George Ross, 22-year-old University of Wyoming senior and recipient of a Rhodes Scholarship, is campaigning against his mother, the first woman governor. He favors the extension of the boundaries of the Yellowstone National Park. Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross opposes the extension.

Although his mother has declared her view that the extension "would not be advantageous to Wyoming," George Ross at the state convention of the Izaak Walton League proposed and advocated a resolution favoring the extension of the park's boundaries.

While the number of American visitors to the capital increased last year, the American colony of 2,537 is about half of what it was before the war. Most of them are here on business or for study.

The Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Sweden began their tour of the National Parks on July 2 at Yellowstone National Park. The National Parks are the scenic wonders of the world. GOOD BREAD and Your Teeth

If you serve PURITAN bread faithfully every day there will be on your table for your family a good supply of calcium, necessary for the keeping of the body bones in vigor and the teeth firm.

Calcium is essential to the growth of the bone structure in children. Without a proper supply of it the body would readily yield to disease. PURITAN bread contains 18 per cent of the required amount. Eaten with milk alone it will give all the mineral salts needed.

Remember, there are differences in bread quality. PURITAN bread is scientifically healthful, while at the same time delicious to the taste, appetizingly full of zesty flavor. Give the children plenty of it; eat more of it yourself. But remember, don't just say "bread"—say PURITAN.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS

Between ten and eleven thousand persons attended the two performances of Sells-Floto circus here Thursday afternoon. The show apparently was not quite as large as when it was here before but it has maintained the high quality of its entertainment. Its acrobats and animal acts were particularly good but the clowns were below the usual standard.

George Carry and sons, Miner-st. returned from a fishing trip in Langlade co.

CIRCUS WORKER COUNTY GUEST FOR TEN DAYS

There will be one vacant chair at the large mess table of the roustabout tent of the Sells-Floto circus for the next 10 days. It's all because of two things—Charles E. Stover, who calls Worcester, Mass., his home town, got drunk, and then he started to get rough. For good measure he struck at an Appleton policeman. Now his mail will have to be addressed in care of the Outagamie co. jail.

It started when someone made a remark about the looks of the circus crew, which was loading a train at Appleton Junction late Thursday evening. Stover didn't like it, and he expressed his displeasure with a few lusty blows. When Patrolman Bliss Carnes came along and said "there, there, boys, mustn't fight," or something like it, Stover invited him to the picnic by striking him. To make a long story short, Stover spent the night in jail. In the morning he went to court. He said he was guilty. Now he's in jail again, this time for 10 days.

BREWERY PROPERTY IS SOLD BY SHERIFF

Two buildings of the defunct Knapstein Brewing Co. of New London were sold Thursday afternoon to W. H. Knapstein, Grönville, for $5,000 plus $400, delinquent tax for 1925. Forty-five shares of preferred stock in the Wolf River Dairy Co., additional collateral for the mortgage on the building was purchased by the Misses Helen, Celia, Beatrice and Rose Knapstein, Mrs. Luther Wright and Mrs. Meikidohn, daughters of the late Henry Knapstein. The daughters held the mortgage on the property as assignees of Mr. Knapstein. The brewer originally consisted

THE Appleton Maennerchor, pictured above, is host to the Eastern Wisconsin Saenger-Bezirk which starts here Friday night and closes with a huge picnic at Pierce park Sunday afternoon. The Maennerchor will take part in the program by 700 singers in Lawrence Memorial chapel Saturday night.

METHODISTS PREPARE FOR CONFERENCE HERE

A special meeting of the official board of First Methodist church has been called for 7:30 Monday evening in the John McNaughton room of the church. Preparations will be made for entertainment of the Wisconsin Conference of Methodist Episcopal churches which will meet in Appleton from Sept. 5 to 13.

More than 400 visitors are expected in Appleton to attend the conference. Special committees will be appointed at the meeting Monday night to take charge of the entertainment program.

COURT SAYS SLAYING OF DOG IS FELONY

Hearing of John Merity, who is alleged to have killed a dog owned by Joseph Werner, route 5, Appleton, on June 17, was adjourned Friday morning in municipal court until 10 o'clock of the morning of July 30. The question arose in court as to whether the alleged act would be classified as misdemeanor or a felony and after considerable debate the court decided that it would be a felony. The adjournment was granted at the request of Merity's attorney.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dahms, former residents of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henry and son Dale, have returned to their home in Minneapolis after a week's visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weltman, 109 W. Hancock-st.

One of three buildings but one of the group has been occupied for some time by the Wolf River Dairy Co.

Reporter Sees Human Side Of Circus In Mess Tent

Circus people, with all their color and noise and gaudiness are regular humans, with the ordinary virtues and faults of all of us. They proved that Thursday afternoon this reporter was the guest of the Sells-Floto management at dinner following the matinee performance.

More than 700 performers, tent men, canvas men, roustabouts, candy butchers, overalls, ticket sellers and hangers crowded into the mess tent between 3:00 and 5:30 in the afternoon for dinner. Details of feeding the crowd had been carefully planned by the steward, Frank Carl. A waiter is assigned to each table and he must care for the wants of all the people who eat at his table.

Immediately following the afternoon appearance the performers retired to the dressing room where they removed their make-up and costumes and dressing as ordinary people they rushed for the mess tent. There they ate roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, baked beans, tomato sauce, bread and butter, several kinds of jelly, catsup, mustard and chili sauce.

The circus uses 300 loaves of bread about 50 quarts of milk, approximately 500 pounds of meat, between 65 and 85 gallons of coffee or tea, from 12 to 15 bushels of potatoes, 40 pounds of butter, 100 pounds of beans, 100 pounds of sugar, and 6 cases of eggs at each meal.

When fresh vegetables are used it takes from three to four crates of tomatoes, 600 bunches of radishes or onions and the same proportion of any other fresh vegetable. Some days the circus crew receive pie for dessert and then the chef must obtain about 125 pies, because they eat "extra large" pieces. When ice cream is served it takes 20 gallons to satisfy the big family.

"We try to keep our boys and girls well fed at all times," the steward said, "because to keep them well fed is to keep them satisfied. On holidays we generally give them something special. And the dishes. A whole volume could be written about the circus dishes. Naturally one expects they are heavy, but this reporter didn't know they were made as heavy as that George Meyer, the announcer and press agent, cautioned him not to drop one on his foot. "We have two people laid up now with broken toes from dropping these cups on them," he said.

The cups and the plates are made of extra heavy hotel china and are "guaranteed to be unbreakable," but according to the steward hundreds of cups and plates are broken every year.

The serving plates are made of metal. Each waiter must care for the dishes used by the people at his table. It is his duty to wash them, pack them away and then have them ready at the next stop. The roustabouts and canvasmen and the working men of the circus are fed in a separate compartment of the large dining tent, where the performers and business men and candy butchers and tent men are taking down the dining tent and at 5:30 it is on its way to the cars and ready to be taken off at the next stop.

Under the spell of the supper hour the circus people lose their circus personalities and the clowns become sober faced men, who really think and talk about things that are not funny, the famous flying wardens become merely "Mame" or "Bill" or "Joe" and the fat lady of the side show is not a curiosity here but a human being with ordinary tastes and feelings.

BIRTHS

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. Meyer, 1309 S. Monroe-st., at St. Elizabeth hospital Friday morning.

A son was born July 9 to Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Miller, 738 E. Franklin-st.

Mrs. Caroline Schmidt, 51, a resident of St. Elizabeth hospital for more than 10 years, died early Friday morning. She was the widow of the late Conrad Schmidt. She was a member of the Third Order of St. Francis of St. Joseph church and of the Christian Mothers society. Members of the Third Order will meet at 7:30 Friday night at the Schommer Funeral home to pray the rosary. The funeral will be held at 9:45 Saturday morning from the funeral home and at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph church. Interment will be in St. Joseph cemetery.

Brown of Appleton; two sisters, Miss Brown of Milwaukee and Mrs. Charles Mackerson of Milwaukee; two brothers, L. H. Brown of Littleton, Ala., and Patrick Brown of Wausau. Gitter of Hortonville; one sister, Mrs. Joseph Holter of Ellington, and eight grandchildren.

Gamblers Murder Canton Publisher

City and police are investigating the possibility of gunmen having been imported to halt his activities. The Canton News some time ago, was made defendant in a libel action for $50,000 brought by Chief of Police S. A. Lengel.

The action was filed after Lengel was suspended by Mayor S. M. Swartz on charges of lax law enforcement. Lengel was exonerated by the civil service commission and reinstated, following a two weeks trial.

DISCLOSE CRIME FIGHT
Columbus, O.—(AP)—Murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, early Friday brought to light here the young publisher's activities in efforts to put down crime in this city.

On July 7, Mellett conferred with Governor Donahy on the crime situation there at which time, according to Secretary J. H. Meckstroth, he assumed sole responsibility for the confinement in the state penitentiary of Harry Turner and Harry Bouklia, who had been convicted of perjury in grand jury investigations of crime conditions.

Mellett told the governor his newspapers had hired detectives who gathered the evidence to show that Turner and Bouklia had violated their paroles and that he personally in his office obtained a pledge from Prosecuting Attorney C. B. McClintock that the two would be cited for parole violation and sent to the penitentiary. He protested to the governor against early release of Turner and Bouklia.

CIRCUS DAY PASSES WITHOUT AN ARREST

Circus day came and went without a single disturbance. There was not a single theft at the circus ground, and not a single theft was reported to Appleton police. Three policemen patrolled the circus during the afternoon performance, and double that number were on duty during the evening. The extra men during the evening served as traffic officers to direct parking. In spite of the fact that thousands of automobiles were parked near the circus, there was not a collision of any kind. In most of the size of Appleton, or larger, the number of officers on duty at or near a circus ranges from 50 to 150.

GENERAL MOTORS
HIT PEAK MARK

Upward Headway Is Made by Number of High Priced Shares Before Midday

New York—(AP)—Narrow and irregular changes characterized opening prices in Friday's stock market. Selling pressure was renewed against a number of industrials and rails but such recent favorites as United States Steel Common, General Motors and Atchafalpa opened fractionally higher. Standard Oil of New Jersey common advanced fractionally and the preferred yielded slightly on reports that the preferred stock would be retired before the end of the year and valuable "rights" given to the common stockholders.

Retention of the 3½ per cent discount rate by the New York Federal Reserve bank, setting at rest at least a week, rumors that the rate would be increased, which caused some of Thursday's late selling, had a stabilizing effect on the price movement.

With a rather general belief that a further reduction of prices was necessary to correct the supposedly weakened technical position, the resumption of bullish operations was attended with extreme caution. The closing of a number of southern banks apparently was without effect on the movements of listed securities.

New peak prices for the year were established in the first few minutes of trading by Mexican Seaboard Oil and Lambert company. Among the more standard industrials, United States Steel Common, Dupont and Dodge were the early leaders.

Another sharp break in French francs, which carried them down to a new low record for all time around 213 cents, featured the foreign exchange market, which displayed a reactionary tone.

The hesitation which had attended the early dealings was shaken off to a large extent, and considerable speculative enthusiasm aroused in spots when General Motors got to 162½, a new high figure for the year before midday. Pronounced headway upward was made by a number of other high priced shares, including Dupont, United States Steel Iron Pipe, General Electric, Pullman and Case Threshing Machine. The general rate on call loans was reduced to 4½ per cent.

The closing was strong. Total sales approximated 1,500,000 shares.

MAY SETTLE NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE IN WEST

CARDINALS PUSH
BROOKLYN OUT OF
FIRST DIVISION

Cubs Enter Race With First Four Leaders With Victory
- Over Braves

There was every indication in Friday's standing of the teams that this year's struggle for the National League bunting would be settled on western baseball battlefields. The east has been crowded out of the first division—the result of an 11 to 5 defeat administered to Brooklyn Thursday by the St. Louis Cardinals. The place of the east's last remaining first division contender was taken by the Cubs with a 3 to 1 triumph over the Braves.

Manager McKechnie, of the Pirates, went into action as the Cubs crowded behind Cincinnati. Eddie Moore $100 for listless playing, while President Heydler of the National League chipped in a three day suspension for catcher Gooch, because of an altercation with umpire Rigler. Then the Corsairs stepped out and blanked the Giants 3 to 0.

Four hits were all the former champions could wrench from the pitching of Kremer. The Pirates timed their spurt to take the advantage of a temporary collapse on the part of Reds. Fourteen hits were amassed by the Phillies to chase three pitchers to the showers and collect an 8 to 5 victory.

The result trimmed Cincinnati's margin over Pittsburgh to two and one half games, with the Cardinals only a half game behind the Corsairs. The St. Louis stamped of Brooklyn, staged behind a fusillade of 17 safe blows, marked the first time this year that Jess Petty was shelved from the mound. The faltering Yankee receded further in the American League, dropping a 6 to 2 decision to the Tigers, but a six game margin over the Athletics kept them out of imminent danger.

Cleveland and Boston halved a twin bill. Emory Rigney of the Red Sox turned in an exceptional day in the field accepting twenty four chances without miscue.

Onida.

Leading teams meet tailenders in the Sunday schedule of the inter-county league, and unless some surprises are occasioned, few upsets will result in the league standings.

Freedom and Wrightstown, tied for the lead with five wins and two losses, play at DePere and Combined Locks, respectively. Little Chute and Onida will entertain fans on the latter's diamond Sunday.

Although it would appear offhand that Wrightstown has an easier assignment than Freedom, the Combined Locks nine has been bolstered considerably by the addition of some new players, and it is intimates around the locks that its team might be expected to stage a winning streak wholly unlooked for. A defeat for either one of the leaders will leave the other in undisputed claim of first honors.

Third place will be decided by Little Chute and Onida, the former now having the slight lead of one game and a half on the latter.

DECIDE WOMEN'S GOLF HONORS AT FONDY ON FRIDAY

Mrs. Rich, Green Bay, and Mrs. Hamilton, Two Rivers,
in Finals

Fond du Lac—(P)—Mrs. C. B. Rich of Green Bay and Mrs. George Hamilton of Two Rivers, will decide the women's championship of the Northeastern Wisconsin Golf association in the final round here Friday at the town and country club course.

Both finalists came through the rounds of elimination in splendid golf. Mrs. Hamilton, the champion in 1923, defeated Ruth Plumb in the semi-finals, 5 and 4, while Mrs. Rich came through a severer test against Mrs. R. Peterson of Appleton, victory coming on the last green.

Late Thursday it was decided not to act on the invitation of various clubs for the 1927 tournament until the May meeting of the organization at Appleton next year.

The pairings are:
Championship: Mrs. C. B. Rich, Green Bay, vs. Mrs. George Hamilton, Two Rivers.

Class A—Mrs. McCormick, Green Bay, vs. Mrs. Bergstrom, Appleton.

Class B—Mrs. B. K. Miller, Fond du Lac, vs. Mrs. R. Miller, Sheboygan.

Class C—Mrs. John T. Boyle, Jr., Fond du Lac, vs. Mrs. Haysen, Sheboygan.

Class D—Mrs. Parker, Green Bay vs. Mrs. Barrett, Sheboygan.

Consolation finals:
Championship: Joan Clark, Two Rivers, vs. Mrs. Brockow, Appleton.

Class A—Mrs. Testwilde, Sheboygan, vs. Mrs. Bachman.

Class B—Betty Kroeschell, Elkhart Lake, vs. Miss Colton, Sheboygan.

Class C—Mrs. J. W. Foster, Green Lake, vs. Mrs. A. C. Dana, Fond du Lac.

Class D—Mrs. Bastian, Elkhart Lake, vs. Mrs. E. Miller, Appleton.

KIMBERLY NINE
READY FOR FONDY

Change in Infield Expected to Strengthen Team for Sunday Game

Kimberly—A rebuilt Kimberly team will face Fond du Lac Sunday when the local leaguers mix it with the team from the south. Fond du Lac has defeated Kimberly twice before, but since the last game John Phillips, shortstop, and Marty Lamers, first base, have been lost. Red Cavil in the outfield also has been lost, so that prospects are not overly bright for a raise in the Kimberly standings.

However, a boost was received Thursday when it became known that Cliff Courtney, Lawrence athlete, had been received in a trade with Manager Baez of Appleton, in which Phillips of Kimberly went to the Appleton team. Courtney is the speed demon of the loop when it comes to fielding fast ones, and should go good at second, stopping opponents' steals. Butch Thain will start at short stop and George Vanderloop will cavort about third.

In the infield the starting lineup will probably be Verbaten in right field, Cooke in center field and H. Thain in left. Len Smith will do the twirling with Hartjes stopping the fast ones behind the platter. This is practically the same lineup that played the Green Bay Sox 17 innings here July 5 with the exception of Courtney at second.

HELPFUL HINTS
GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

JOHN G. ANDERSON—MASHIE IS FAVORITE
It seems rather pertinent to say that good players need not load down their bags with extra clubs whose grips never see the light of day.

Now the reason is not in the extra flight of the ball, which distance, it is true, has been exceeding yardage the last few years. Much comes in the power of the club and the successful search for a club whose beautiful balance gives an extra 10 or more yards.

If you will look over the precious clubs of star players you will find that their mashies are the best liked of all the clubs in the bag. Large-bladed affairs most of them and finely tuned to the stiff shaft. Without a mashie of parts I doubt very much if the present day amateurs or pros would be able to beat par.

It doesn't seem so very long ago when we figured on the use of the mashie from a distance of not more than 125 yards. Nowadays it is the exception when a first-class player does not look for that club when he has a shot of up to 175 yards to make. A brassie plus a mashie gives all the way up to 450 yards.

"ELITE EAST" IS
RULER NO LONGER
IN SPORT WORLD

High Place for Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Penn, Assumed
by Others

BY ART CARLSON
Not so long ago it used to be the "elite east" when you were touching on matters of a sportive nature. For, in those days the sector along the Atlantic seaboard stood well at the top in virtually all branches of sport. And more, the east frankly and readily admitted its superiority for the last few seasons. The east is just the east in the realm of sports.

The high place of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Penn, Cornell and the others used to hold has been assumed by middle western, far western and southern schools with the institutions from the Pacific slope playing a prominent part.

In the last few years eastern football teams have bowed in defeat in a majority of the big intersectional games. Only last fall Michigan handed what was considered a pretty strong Navy eleven an unmerciful 54-0 trouncing; a fair Illinois team invaded Franklin field, and wallowed in a Penn outfit that had been rated one of the best in the east; Ohio State beat Columbia and Ohio Wesleyan tide Syracuse among others.

On track and field Southern California duplicated its victory of the year before by romping off with the 1926 I. C. A. classic. It was the fifth time in the last six seasons a far western school outscored the east could produce. (Not much of a showing for the east, is it?)

THIRD IN FOUR YEARS
In rowing Washington won its third championship in four years by trimming Navy at Poughkeepsie.

And took the east for another fall by defeating Princeton in a special race. In 1925 Washington and Wisconsin, invading boats, finished second and third while the year before that the same two shells came in first and second. So, you see, the east has been remarkably successful in intersectional rowing.

For the last two campaigns, a southerner, Freddie Lamprecht, of Tulane, has walked away with the intercollegiate golf crown, being the only pastime outside of Dexter Cummings of Yale to grab the laurel wreath, twice in succession—and you must remember this specific get-together has been annually held with few exceptions since 1897.

In tennis the east has likewise been forced to take a rear seat. Starting in 1921 when Philip Neer won the intercollegiate crown for Stanford, an eastern representative has bagged the title but twice. That was in 1922 and 1923.

During the last three campaigns the east has been shut out, both singles and doubles honors going to outsiders. In 1924 Wallace Scott of the University of Washington led the pack while last year and this year Eddie Chandler of California stood above the field.

To go along a bit more, the east hasn't won the doubles title in the last five seasons, or not since Harvard's Penno-Pfeibelman success in 1921.

Offhand, I don't recall any more sports wherein the east has been given a consistent spanking, but it seems a great sufficiency has been related already.
It's the "elite east" no longer!

BREWERS WORTH $100,625

FRED SCHULTE

Only a year ago, Fred Schulte was playing semi-pro ball on the sandlots of Iowa. Then Otto Borchert, owner of the Milwaukee Brewers, picked him up and gave him the center field job on his American Association club.

Schulte has made good with such a vengeance that Boss Otto has put a price of $100,625 on the youngster's dome as big league scouts are bidding for his services. When Bob Moses Grove, sensational Mackinac flinger, cost the elongate Mr. Cornelius McGillicuddy $100,600 it was thought the high mark had been reached. But now the head of the Brewers asks even more for his star.

Schulte has been hitting around .400 (leading the league in batting) and has been fielding sensationally. He's reputed to be one of the biggest "finds" the Double-T circuit has uncovered in many moons.

Champion Gains from Five to Six Pounds, Increases
Chances for Win

New York—(P)—Paul Berlenbach's chances of successful defense of his light heavyweight championship against Jack Delaney Friday night increased Friday with his weight.

Before rain at Ebbets field compelled postponement of the struggle Thursday night, Delaney was a 6 to 5 favorite. Friday the champion was five or six pounds heavier, it was estimated than when he weighed in. This would give him a ringside advantage of probably ten or more pounds. Required by an alarming jump in weight Wednesday night to fight nature Thursday in order to reduce to the class limit, Berlenbach looked finely drawn when he tipped the scales in the afternoon at 174½. Delaney was eight and one half pounds under the limit at 166½ and although his followers considered Berlenbach's big advantage doubtful, Delaney maintained he was in the best condition of his career.

Critics estimated Berlenbach will exceed 180 pounds when the principals are called from their corners by the gong at 9 P. M. standard time Friday night. Delaney, on the other hand is expected to scale about 170.

Although weights of the two men will be taken, rules of the New York state athletic commission do not require that they make the class limit in the event of a single night's postponement.
